

Marshall Family Cemetery

Federal Hill - Washington, Kentucky

For Charles A. Marshall Jr., Christmas of 1982. Lovingly made by his daughter-in-law Mary Frances Peddie Marshall and his son Charles William Marshall.

Detail of part of the cast-iron
work on the cemetery gates.

Names are listed in order of internment in the cemetery. Where individuals share a monument or marker, the oldest date of interment determines placement on this list. The numbers on the plat are placed on the side from which the inscription can be read. In great part, we only transcribed here what was legible in the fall of 1982, when we did our ordinal work. However, we made an exception on several of the earliest graves taking information from The Marshall Family, by William McClung Paxton, Baltimore, MD. Any information from that book will simply say "Paxton", followed by a page number. Paxton's work was considered very reliable by family members we talked to in the late 1970s. We have also tried to only document dates, punctuation, spelling, etc. as it appears on graves. MFPM & CWM, September, 2015

1.all.....son of.....1799.....1800 (Almost illegible. Only this part of the inscription was visible after a rain)

7. Mary F. E. Paxton Dec. 18, 1825 - April 18, 1829 "Of such is the Kingdom of God"
8. Erected to the Memory of Mrs. Frances Marshall who died in the 61st year of her life, Nov. 19, 1833. During the vicissitudes of a long life chequered, as is the lot of humanity, with much happiness and more of sorrow, the character of the deceased remained the same. An affectionate wife, a fond mother, an humble but ardent Christian, a warm-hearted and devoted friend, she will long be remembered in the extensive circle of friends and relatives who for many years met at her hospitable board, and to whom her house was a home. In the bosom of that numerous connection who had known her worth and shared her affection, she expired calmly, cheerfully, happily in the hope of a joyful resurrection. (This fantastic inscription was completely legible in 1982!)
